

Quiestede

Find the village of Quiestede and its centre (mairie and church). Then follow the valley of the Lauborne by « Little Quiestede », an area of long-established watercress beds.

The Church of Our Lady of the Assumption was built in the sixteenth-century. It displays a beautiful balance in its materials, being built of brick with white stone around its windows. The near-by presbytery has been rejuvenated by its recent transformation into the village mairie.

The chateau of Lapree to the north of the commune is a listed building. It has been rebuilt in the style of the bell' epoch in the nineteenth century and has always been occupied by the de Lencquesaing family.
