

Roquetoire

Visit the pastoral landscape which gives the village its charm.

From the village square, take the road for Aire. A little footpath (a track) then takes you to the Rue Saint-Michel. Follow the arrows which direct you round a little loop through the hedgerow country. Then rejoin the Heringaux lane (still called the Vieux Chemin de Therouanne). It allows you to go through the wet land of Warnes. To return go towards Rupereau - sugar beet is collected here - and follow the Liauwette. You then rejoin the Bois de Ligne by a picturesque, but uneven way.

If you have the time, you must detour to visit the chateau de la Morande. Take the trouble, too, to visit the church, where the square bell-tower has recently been restored (2008). Incidentally, how many chapels have you noticed on your walk?
